The image displays two vertical musical staves for guitar, representing a tablature. Each staff consists of six horizontal lines representing strings and vertical lines representing frets. The notation includes circles with dots inside, indicating specific fret positions on the strings. A circled '3' is present in the upper right of the first staff. A dashed vertical line is drawn through both staves, likely indicating a barre or a specific fret position. The second staff features a dashed horizontal line at the bottom, possibly representing a capo or a specific fretting technique. The notation is sparse, focusing on key fret positions for the notes.
